

Abstract of the Disclosure

The resistive heater includes a metallic component that is electrically conductive

The resistivity is controlled in part by controlling the amount of oxide, nitride, carbide, and boride formation during the deposition of the metallic component and the derivative.

[illegible]